A REPLICA OF THE OLD STATE CAPITOL is seen here in the process of being constructed by the industrial arts classes. Made of masonite, the forty-foot building is on a one-fifth scale of the original building. The plans were drawn by Ronnie Sillings, a member of the mechanical drawing class. Ronnie is also working on the building but was absent the day the picture was made.

The bricks are made of small strips of the masonite with the edges sanded to look like the stone blocks. Doors, windows, and all trim will be exactly like the original building. The construction is such that the replica should, if properly cared for, be used when Indiana celebrates its Bi-Centennial.

Early this year, members of the Executive Committee of the Sesquicentennial contacted Earl O. Saulman, principal of the High School, and Daris Broglin, industrial arts instructor, about building an exact replica of the Old State House for the 1966 celebration and for various parades, etc., in the future.

When these men agreed to make this building, it was to be financed by the Sesquicentennial Committee. As the work has progressed and interest has increased it has been decided to make this a project of the high school for the 1966 celebration.

Pantherette Receives A First Place From CSPA

The Pantherette has won a First Place Certificate from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association in its 1965 contest. Over 2000 schools entered the competition. Judged in the class of schools with an enrollment of 501 to 750, the classification is determined by a combination of three elements, viz., the method of reproduction, the type of publication, and the type of school. Mary Wilson is editor; Pat Moss, editorial writer; Margaret Meyer, feature editor; Joe Cato and Larry Pendleton, sports writers; Ann Pinaire, Terry Walts, Eldon Mason and Linda Kintner, reporters. The sponsor is Mrs. Mary Margaret Jones.

Papers are judged on I contents, II writing and editing, which includes (1) news stories, (2) sports stories, (3) feature stories, (4) interviews (5) editorials, (6) headlines, (7) copyreading and editing, (8) proofreading, III make-up A. General appearance, B. Headline Typography, IV general consideration.

Band Wins Second In ISMA Contest

The CCHS Band Department entered both the High School Band and the Junior High Band in the I.S.M.A. band contest. The contest was held at Seymour High School. Both bands were awarded a second or excellent rating.

The High School Band entered class BB and was awarded an excellent rating. The numbers played by the High School Band were "Thundercrest", a concert march by Eric Osterling, "Variation Overture" by Clifton Williams, and "The London Symphony" by Franz Joseph Haydn.

Thirty-seven bands and twenty-six choruses took part in this annual contest. The 3600 students taking part in the contest made Seymour the largest contest center in Indiana. There were approximately 10 contest centers throughout the state.

INDIANA U. SPEECH STUDENTS VISIT CCHS

Three students from the Indiana University Speech Bureau visited with Mrs. Elam's Speech II class, Mr. Bickel's government classes and Mrs. Enlow's world geography class to talk with the students about the United Nations. Their topic included the United Nations in general, its history, and some of the present problems facing the organization. After they concluded their discussion there was a short question and answer period in which the students present participated freely.

Members of the group were Carol Orth, a sophomore, Roichi (Rocky) Okabe from Nagaya, Japan and Mr. Court, who was the discussion leader.

Student Council Contributes To Building Fund

First to contribute to the project was the Student Council, which sponsored a talent show on April 15 at an assembly program.

An admission fee of ten cents was charged each student and the show netted a total of $51.70.

Terry Walts, president of Student Council was master of ceremonies. Mr. James Norman, guidance counselor, is the faculty advisor.

The talent was of a variety consisting of pantomines, solos accompanied by piano or combo. Mike Bennet, Max Rusk, and Gary Deaton opened the program with two songs and accompanied them with drums and electric guitars. Pantomines of some of the latest hits were done by Patty Crone, Karen Wyatt, Mitchell Ayres, Ireland Scott, and Fred Smith, Diana Gibson, who later in the program played a piano solo, accompanied Alexa Clements, Deanna Miller, Max Rusk, Claudia Pate, Linda Kirkham, and Donna Voelker, a student at Lanesville. Opal Coleman sang a solo and was accompanied on the piano by Mary Kathryn Hall. Mary Kathryn also performed in a saxophone trio with Deanna Miller and Linda Kirkham. Mike Bennet and Gary Deaton appeared again to accompany Carol Miller, Anita Fisher, and Diane Smith, and also they were part of a jazz combo consisting of Rick Brown, Mark Stauth, Larry McLain, Gerald Lowe and Pete Akers.

Pat Moss Receives Metz Scholarship

Pat Moss, senior, has been awarded a four year Arthur R. Metz scholarship from Indiana University. This scholarship is one of the distinguished scholarships offered by I.U. The competition for these scholarships is very keen, hence it is a signal honor to be selected a recipient. The recipients of the Metz scholarships are expected to maintain a 3.3 grade average and to otherwise bring credit to themselves and the University in their non-academic endeavors.

The scholarship is in the amount of $1,000, one fourth of which will be available each of his undergraduate years. Also, in recognition of his achievement as valedictorian of his class, Pat has been awarded the Special Scholarship for his freshman year. This scholarship is in the form of a partial remission of fees and has a value of approximately $200.

Foundation Of Knowledge

NEXT WEEK IS LIBRARY WEEK

National Library Week will be upon the nation from April 25 - May 1. During that week Indiana proposes campaigns for all cities and towns to inform and convince the people of the importance and value of libraries.

In Indiana there is now inadequate library service. Forty-nine percent of Indiana townships are without library service. Of the libraries that do exist, ninety percent do not meet the minimum standards recommended by the American Library Association.

Indiana school library standards call for four to six dollars expenditure per year per pupil, but average expenditures range about half of this. Corydon Central spends about three dollars per student per year on library facilities.

Libraries can attack illiteracy, boost economic and social levels, provide career opportunities, and assist schools, business, and organization. Business demands, "Send me a man who reads!" Yet 19.4 percent of the population of Indiana, nearly one million people reside in areas without libraries. Corydon, then, is fortunate in having a free public library, and a competent school library system.

Carl Bussabarger and Mitchell Ayers stock the book rack for sales as Mrs. Gleitz keeps busy with books for loaning.

Library Improvements Made

In the spring of 1963, during National Library Week, a bookstore was added to the library facilities in CCHS. Since then, paperback books on nearly any subject have been sold to students at reduced prices. The success of the bookstore can be determined by the number of books that have been sold. After only two years of operation, sales, monitored by Mrs. Gleitz and student librarians, have reached a total of 3297 books, which averages to the purchase of three books per student per year.

Besides a bookstore, other improvements have been made on the school library. Last year another set of shelves was added to the alcove, providing space enough for almost six hundred volumes.

Already this year, over six hundred hardback books have been added to the library. This is an enormous number to have been added in only one school year.

Next fall students will find that the library will have a new face. The counter, from which sales of books and school supplies are made and from which magazines and books may be borrowed, will be altered to make space for book racks outside the counter. Also, the shelves under the windows will be cut nearly by half in depth. Now there is much unused space, causing only inconvenience. Plans are to improve the facilities for the most advantageous use. Undoubtedly many other changes will appear, making the Corydon Central High School library the best possible.

Student Librarians — Carl Bussabarger and Mitchell Ayers.

Library Science As A Career

The school library is the instruction center of the school—senior high, junior high, or elementary. It includes not only books, magazines, newspapers, pamphlets, but also films, filmstrips, slides, pictures, map recording and other audio-visual media for self-instruction.

The education of young people is a stimulation and vital process. The librarian is a member of the educational team, because he tries to build a library that supports and supplements all the subjects taught in school. A librarian must work to meet the needs for information for the students, and also to stimulate reading developments and interests.

Expanded enrollments, the advancement of knowledge, and greater emphasis that is placed on the students' use of library materials today tends to make the library the hub of learning activity.

When there is only one librarian in the school, he does all kinds of library work, such as selecting, evaluating, ordering, organizing, and circulating the collection; assisting in reference questions; instructing in the use of the ma-

FTA'ers To Attend Convention At Indy

Future Teachers of America will attend the state convention at Indiana Central College in Indianapolis on Saturday, April 14.

Dr. Lois Edinger, president of the National Educational Association, will be the principal speaker. Attending from the Corydon terials; and advising individuals in their reading choices.

Each school — elementary, junior high, and senior high — has its special needs and special rewards for a librarian. To one librarian, the enthusiasm of the elementary school children during story-telling hour has particular appeal. To another, the restless energy and wide range of interests of the junior high age seems most worthwhile. Some are stimulated by the maturing interests and activities of the senior high student, and enjoy suggesting the material for classroom, as well as personal, use.

Nevertheless a librarian will find the world of books, and the power of words useful and rewarding through their use by everyone, young and old.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The following is a recent letter addressed to the Student Council of this school.

The Student Council

Dear Students:

I have just read the Pantherette and I want to express my satisfaction and pleasure regarding your thinking and decision about respecting the flag. I am sure this will not only help each of you be more thankful for your heritage but will set an example for some of us adults who forget these symbols of our patriotic duty. Thanks!

Respectfully,

ELEANOR A. GRIFFIN

Dear Editor,

In my four years in high school I have seen several items in the Pantherette about teenagers, mostly boys. I want to ask a question. What about the CCHS girls? Are they little angels, so nice and polite that no one notices their behavior?

Sure, I admit some of the boys here can't see past their nose because of hair in their eyes. In fact there are 18 of these boys in CCHS. Some if not most of us, wear tight or fairly tight pants or jeans.

But how many girls are there in this school who have nice hair styles? In fact how many still have their natural color of hair? How many girls can see in front of their face? Then if the hair isn't over their eyes, it's on the very top of their head looking like a rat's nest being raided by cats. Then there is the face if you can find it under all the lipstick, powder, face make-up, etc. Some of the girls here at school look like walking cosmetic stores.

And there are their dressing habits. We have some who like to model in the school in their little sister's dress that is so tight it molds every stitch of clothing underneath the dress or it doesn't come within three or four inches of their knees.

My purpose of writing this is to try to give the girls an idea of what the boys think of these things. How do I know? We have conducted a question and answer period on this in an all boy class of twenty-one.

The things that 75 percent of these boys disliked most were

1. Girls dressing to extremes
 2. Face make-up
 3. Language
 4. Hair styles
- The other 25 percent disliked
1. Language
 2. Dress
 3. Hair styles
 4. Face make-up

The classes in which these were noticed to be the worst in are as follows:

- 75 percent of the boys said junior and freshman girls were worse at dressing. The other 25 percent said the senior girls were worse.
- 50 percent said Junior girls were using the worst language.
- 20 percent said that Senior girls

Chap'er will be the following: Janice Mauck, Margaret Creelius, Robert Fight, Martha Yates, Kathy Cline, Denise Melton, Karen McCoy, Kris Kline, Sandra McHatten, Becky Webb Barbara Hoback, Linda Kirkham, Suzanne Windell, Janet Reed, Kay Mitchell.

Elections

The FTA officers for the year of 1965 - 66 are Kay Mitchell, president; Sandra McHatten, vice president; Cindy Steenbergen, secretary; Kris Kline, treasurer; Suzanne Windell, reporter; Darlene Bentley, parliamentarian; Ronnie Deatrick, historian. The installation meeting will be on May 4.

Membership Next Year

Any student who is interested in joining the group should drop his name in a box in the guidance room. After names have been submitted they will be passed on by the teaching staff and new members will be chosen.

were using the worst language.

25 percent of the boys split between Freshman-Sophomore girls for worst language.

80 percent said that Junior girls were worst at hair styles.

20 percent said that Freshman girls were worst at hair styles.

78 percent said Freshman girls were worst with cosmetics.

20 percent said that Senior girls were worst with cosmetics.

This was based on answers from a class that has equal amounts of boys from each class. So, girl, if you feel you have to be noticed, we suggest that you try washing your face, combing your hair, and dressing like a high school girl should, not like a modeling fend.

A BOYS' CLASS

Dear Editor:

On May 14, a major social event will be presented by our fair school. Some would even call it a prom. Because of certain "obvious" reasons, it will be held in the illustrious gymnasium of this heroic school. Where else would be such a fitting place? Just because the average student has spent over fifteen hundred hours in this building already this year is no reason not to spend five more there. Besides being easy to find, one would not have to tolerate such disreputable places as the Colonial Inn. Why, there places even charge money to use them. Even though there are some who would rather pay two or three dollars each to go to these places, there is no possible way to finance a trip like this. These few argue that out of three hundred students that the money could be raised in sufficient quantity to rent Colonial Inn. Preposterous! At a dollar each, that only comes to the trifling sum of three hundred dollars.

Even if it were possible to raise the money, what would one use to transport all these students to another location. Even if it is true that a lot of students drive to ball games, we can't have this procedure on anything as trifling in comparison as a prom. We could not allow that because of apparent necessities, all these students would have to ride the bus—in formals and suits. Some of the troublemakers argue that we ought to have at least one dance a year away from the schools to give people experience in unfamiliar places. That's irrelevant. Besides we're just country hicks who are supposed to be ignorant and not to be informed on things like getting along in an unfamiliar place.

Although a few seem to have listened to reason, logic and squawk - if - you - want - but - we ain't - listening, some diehards say we should at least have an open prom. Even if one of the couple goes to this school, we can't have these outsiders polluting us with such things as making new friends. Besides, we know anyone from another school has to be a drunk, a wild driver, or a troublemaker, even if they are top in their class. I say no! We must stay in our little safety deposit boxes or else we might even have to deal with the world, people and, of all things, reality.

Today I have a few comments on the subject of whether to go to the bowling alley after the prom. I can set your minds at ease. There will be only one thing at the alley prom night—a lock on the door. The Jaycees will not sponsor a party like last year because the school board said too many parents complained about late hours. We wouldn't want to lose voters now, would we? Even though the alley is closed, the drive-in will be open all night. I am sure a girl's mom would rather have her stay in a car, with a boy, alone, most of the night. Of course! Just because you're going to stay out all night anyway, there's no reason to provide a supervised place to stay when you can always go to such places as New Albany, Crandall, Valley City, Leavenworth, and the state forest.

I say in conclusion that we must stop these frightful ideas or else those who stay home might even come to the prom. Heaven forbid!

Yours truly,
WILLIAM LANG

Juniors, Seniors Gain Experience In Cadet Teaching

Junior and senior Future Teachers are working in many fields this semester. Seniors are classed as cadet teachers and receive credit; juniors work merely for experience in preparation for cadet teaching next year.

There are seven cadet teachers working in the elementary school. Two seniors, Rueann Neafus and Vera Richard, assist in kindergarten Monday through Thursday. Nancy Kirkham assists Mrs. Windell in the third grade, moving from group to group each day. Mary Lou Lowe, with Mrs. Jennings, is instructing second graders in penmanship. Janice Mauck, with Mrs. McPhillips, also teaches penmanship in the third grade. Margaret Meyer was with Mrs. Roys, assisting with regular teaching duties each day, but recently moved to the junior high to help Miss Lynn Moss in her eighth grade American history class. Fred Wolfe teaches English to fifth graders. His cooperating teacher is Mr. Taylor.

Our high school teachers are also assisted by the cadet teachers. Barbara Baxley is working with Mr. Lander in the art department. Barbara Hoback helps Mrs. Enlow in social studies. Margaret Creclius, and juniors Martha Yates and Bob Fight assist Mrs. Brunner in reading laboratory work. Janet Reed helps Mrs. Ludlow in the home economics department by arranging bulletin boards, and supervising and prompting the underclassmen. Danny Sutherland and Mark Stauth work in their favorite subject, agriculture, with Mr. Art Windell.

Juniors who tutor individual pupils from the grade school are Kay Mitchell, Cindy Steenberg, and Deanna Miller. They meet at the Corydon Public Library after school. Kay helps a fourth grader every day, while Cindy tutors a sixth grader in English three evenings each week. Deanna teaches two boys in the second and sixth grades.

Most of the seniors will enter college, although some have learned through limited experience in teaching that this field is not really what they want. The FTA feels that it is just as important that young people learn that they can or do not desire to teach, as that they are able and want to go on to college and become a teacher.

Future Homemakers Observe FHA Week

The Future Homemakers of America were busier than usual from April 4th to 10th. This was the week that the half million members of this national youth organization observe National FHA Week.

Our FHA chapter scheduled several activities for the week. They put an exhibit in the lobby and designed posters promoting FHA. All the FHA members wore red and white, the club's colors, on Friday to focus attention to FHA.

Future Homemakers of America are home economics students in junior and senior high schools. The organization, founded 20 years ago states as its Creed:

"We face the future with warm courage and high hope. For we are the builders of homes . . . for America's future. Homes where living will be the expressions of everything that is good and fair. Homes where truth and love and security and faith will be realities, not dreams."

A national program of work guides the activities of individual FHA members and chapters. Projects on this year's program are: (1) You and Your Values; (2) Focus on Family Friendship; (3) Marriage Calls for Preparation; (4) Stay in School; and (5) Action for Citizenship.

Future Homemakers of America is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education and the American Economics Association but receives its financial support from the dues of members.

New FFA Officers Plan To Attend Training Camp

The new officers of the Future Farmers of America are Jim McGraw, Jim Cunningham, Larry Faith, Keith Sutherland, Tom Smiley, and Harold Bussabarger. They will attend the 1965 Indiana FFA Leadership Camp from July 25 to 28 at Tippecanoe River State Park near Winamac. The camp site provides forty-three buildings and a swimming pool.

The FFA Leadership Training Camp is a three day intensive program of leadership training, recreation, and fellowship at a camp location. It is designed for those Future Farmers interested in gaining skills that will improve their leadership, cooperative, and citizenship abilities. The camp helps develop the strong leaders urgently needed in modern agriculture.

FHA Travels To District Meeting

The Future Homemakers of America sent a delegation of eleven girls to the district FHA meeting, April 3, at the Mitchell High School.

The theme of the meeting was "Education Strengthens Youth." Highlights of the meeting included a guest speaker from the West Washington School system showing slides on Russian schools, and the election of officers on both the state and district levels.

Carolyn Lang, sophomore, ran for district parliamentarian but was defeated by a Georgetown student. Senior Janet Reed served as voting delegate.

Mrs. Patricia Ludlow, FHA sponsor, drove the drivers' training car and Mrs. Irene Kintner drove her own automobile. Representatives of 45 chapters of the FHA were present with an approximate attendance of 600.

The eleven girls attending representing all four classes, were: Inez Bates, Helen Kintner, Janet Reed, Linda Kintner, Claudia Pate, Sandy Shewmaker, Anna Jean Brunner, Carolyn Lang, Faye Roby, Barbara Lang and Paula McCarty.

Helen Kintner, local president and former parliamentarian of the Future Homemakers traveled to Bloomington on March 21 to meet with the other ten district officers to plan this meeting.

FUTURE NURSES WILL CELEBRATE FNC DAY

The Future Nurses' Club of Corydon Central High School will mark the third national FNC Day, May 14. The date has been designated to honor the 4,800 FNC's in high schools across the country for their part in steering qualified young people into nursing and other health careers and for the service they perform for their communities.

The club's overall program is designed to enable members to explore career opportunities in nursing and the other health fields. Nurses and student nurses discuss nursing with members and answer questions. Films illustrate various aspects of health care. Field trips to nursing schools, hospitals, and other community health agencies expand career horizons. The members of our club have visited St. Joseph's Hospital, Norton's Infirmary, and have helped the Crippled Children's Society during the past years to observe nurses, physicians, and other members of the health team at work. They recently filled envelopes for the Crusade School. Community projects help club members to gain insight into nursing and health work and to prepare themselves to take their places as useful adult citizens.

The local club has been nationally chartered by the National League for Nursing, national sponsor of the clubs through the Committee on Careers. Co-sponsors are the American Hospital Association, American Medical Association, and American Nurses' Association. The Corydon Future Nurses' Club has approximately thirty members this year.

Bill Fisher Chosen For Boys' State

Billy Fisher, who has been chosen as president of his class during his three years in high school, has been chosen the delegate from this school to the annual Boys' State. He is being sponsored by the local American Legion Post. The weeks meeting will be held in Bloomington in June.

Haggard were recognized. Refreshments of pie, ice cream, and milk or coffee were served by Glenna Windell with the help of Donna Fravel, Linda Kintner, Carolyn Land, and Geneine Campbell of Leavenworth. The Star Farmer Award will be presented to a senior boy on Awards Night, May 2.
