

Talent Show Ends In Tie 'The Hypnotics' And 'Tiajuana Brass' Tie

This year's student council talent show was a big success. Don Harper emceed the hour long show which took place on stage in the school gymnasium. The program was open to all C.C.H.S. teachers and students. The price of admission was $1.15, but many were let in on dimes, and even IOU's. This year a new feature was added to the event. It was turned into a contest by having five teachers as judges, and awarding prizes to the winners. As it turned out, there was a tie for first place between two combos. One of these groups consisted of Harold Hall at the piano, Dennis Stepro on the trombone, Don Harper on 1st trumpet, Billy Goldman playing 2nd trumpet, and Gary Deaton behind the drums. They played two selections from the Tiajuana Brass. They call themselves "Minus the Tiajuana Brass".

The band who shared first place honors with them is called "The Hypnotics". This combo is made up of Mike Bennett on lead guitar, Dennis Akers on second guitar, Mike McGraw playing the saxophone, and again Gary Deaton on the skins.

There were five other contestants besides the winners. Ellen Olson and Jill Moss performed a skit by taking the parts of two dolls. The "Wanderers," a band consisting of Donnie Lynch, Marvin Reynolds and Chuck Redden on the drums, also played. Augie Alsdorf gave a unique pantomime with words. Mona Rothrock sang "Maria" from "The Sound of Music", and Brenda Quebbeman presented a jazz dance.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Reimold, Miss Puryear, Mr. Frederick, and Mr. Bickel.

Fifty-eight dollars were taken in at the doors. Eight of these dollars will be used to buy a trophy with the winners' names on it, to sit in the trophy case. The other fifty will be used to pay the way of a student council member to Leadership Training at I.U., or to National Count in Minnesota.

NATO Is '67 Topic Of World Institute Annual Jr. - Sr. Prom Tomorrow Evening

The subject of this year's World Affairs Institute was "NATO and the Atlantic Alliance". It was held March 31 and April 1 at the Netherland Hilton Hotel in Cincinnati.

Frank Ordner, who was the delegate from Corydon, attended with Janet Deich, a senior from South Central, and Mr. True, assistant principal.

Delegates attended the Institute from all over the United States as well as some foreign countries.

The purpose of the Institute was to discuss the policies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and to let students see the views of other students in different parts of the nation as well as a day from different parts of the world.

Frank reported that the most interesting part of the Institute was the four panel discussions. Dr. James King from the Pentagon, Paul Underwood, Professor of Journalism at Ohio State, George Best, from the Bureau of European Affairs of the State Department, and Hoyt P. Steele, Vice-President of the General Electric Company of the Far East, were the four discussion leaders. After these men spoke, the group was divided into small discussion groups of twenty-five each, where some heated arguments took place.

Frank said the trip was very much worth while and he learned much from it.

The 1967 Junior Prom will be held tomorrow night aboard the Belle of Louisville. This year's theme will be "Three Coins in the Fountain."

Saturday night will be the climax of a year of candy-selling by the Juniors who made over $800. The Juniors also worked hard in other ways.

Those on the refreshment committee are Karen Wise, Barbara Lang, Phyllis Reas, Margaret Webb, Dorie Sauerheber and Toby Day. Members on the invitation committee are Colin Cotner, Becky Eckart, Pam Fisher, Marilyn Long acre, Mary Mathes, Missy Forsythe, Paula McCarty, Donna Kintner, Marsha Tuley, Ellen Olson, and Frances Lincoln. Thirty-six students are on the decoration committee. There are also fifty willing workers who offered to clean the buses and incidentally get out of last period study hall.

The band headed by Charles Conrad will be featured from nine to twelve. A rock and roll band will play during the intermissions.

much worth while and he learned much from it.

"MR. CRANE"

Corydon's First Musical Will Be Presented May 5

"Mr. Crane of Sleepy Hollow," will be the first musical to be presented by students of the high school, Friday evening, May 5. The musical a comedy in two acts, is written by Al Simmons, lyrics by Elsie Simmons, and music by Larry Wagner. It is being co-directed by Mrs. Eiam and Mr. True.

The scene of the musical is a girls' school at Sleepy Hollow. When the new dancing teacher, Ike Crane, joins the faculty things begin to change. Ike is even able to persuade the Dean of girls to have mixed dances with a neighboring boys' school. Everyone soon becomes very fond of Ike, including the pretty music teacher, Kathy Van Tassel. The phys. ed. instructor, Tom Bones, who is one of Kathy's admirers, soon becomes jealous of Ike and tries his best to get him out of the school. Kathy has a hard time deciding who she likes, muscular, handsome Tom Bones, or shy, timid Ike Crane.

MUSICIANS ATTEND STATE BAND CONTEST

Hundreds of musicians from the mid-southern portion of Indiana flocked to Salem, Saturday, April 5, to participate in the State Band Contest. The CCHS band placed second in Class B. Mr. Trueblood stated that each year the students want to move up to a stiffer class of competition. Classes, in ascending order, are GG, F, D, CC, C, BB, B, and A. Other bands in Class B and their rank in the contest were: Scottsburg, I; Paoli, II; Milan, I; North Central, II; and Salem, I.

Mr. Trueblood said that trying to win a first at this contest has turned into a real challenge because the only first place was received sixteen years ago in 1951. He said that the band had worked harder for the first place they won at Jasper contest in Class BB but a second in the higher class and stiffer competition last Saturday is to be commended.

Spring Tour

A Spring Band Tour is being planned tentatively for May 10, 11, and 12. It will be an educational tour which will include giving concerts at other schools as well as listening to other musical groups. The band plans to leave for Wabash on May 10. Our band will play a concert in their Junior High Auditorium. Their high school will also attend. Corydon students will then spend the night in the homes of the Wabash students.

Thursday the group will travel to Wolcott and will give a concert that afternoon. Thursday night the band goes to Lafayette to hear the Purdue band in concert. Friday the band goes to Chicago where seats have been reserved for the Chicago Symphony that afternoon.

The cost is shared by the Band Parents, the Band Fund and the students.

Juniors Receive Predictive Scores

Mr. Norman is currently talking with each member of the junior class about his predictive composite scores. The predictive composite is derived by combining the student's PSAT scores with his percentile rank in his class. It can be used to give a student an idea of his chance of academic success during his freshman year in college. The composite gives the possible chance out of one hundred that a student has of making an A, B, C, D, or F at various colleges throughout the state.

Mr. Norman stated that the program has proven to be very accurate in predicting grades of college freshmen while they were still in high school.

At the present time Indiana is the only state which has begun using these predictive composites.

Marmelstein "Steps" Out

In a typical Corydon Central High School student's name, one name Marmelstein reads for the big event of the year — the Junior Prom. Since Ruth has been absent for awhile she has not been fortunate enough to have been asked. (As many of you may not recall, Ruth was dropped over Vietnam several months ago and has just returned.) It is now 1 minus 3 days and counting, with home at Marmelstein's a hectic scene. As we look in on the scene, Ruth is seated on the family couch wringing hankies into a bucket full of tear drops. Mergatroid, Ruth's younger brother, who happens to be a junior this year, innocently crosses from the kitchen to replace the full bucket with an empty.

"Ruth, why don't you pull yourself together?" he pleads, "Besides, I'm getting tired of carrying these buckets back and forth!"

To make a long story short, Mergatroid ended up heroically forcing a friend of his to take his distressed sister to the Prom. (With a few threats from his mother and father to help him see how chivalrous it would be.)

Now that Ruth finally has a date the whole house is full of excitement. When a girl goes to the Prom she wants to make sure she doesn't overlook a thing. And Ruth being no ordinary girl, plans to make this prom a very memorable one, after all, it is her last high school prom.

Ruth now has to worry about her dress, accessories and an appointment to have her hair fixed for the prom. She is certainly glad that she thought of all these "small details" before her trip to Vietnam.

The day of the prom has finally arrived and a sleepy-eyed figure can be seen slowly walking up the steps of the local beauty salon at 8:30 a.m. It's Ruth and she wanted to be first in because it's so telling how long she will be in there!

Three hours later we find Ruth just arriving home. She hurries to her bedroom so no one will see her. She wants to surprise her family and so she begins getting dressed. As mentioned before, Ruth is no ordinary girl and her lavender-colored dress with a large lacey back bow is proof enough of that. Ruth found this lovely gown in one of the "mod" fashion shops in town. She bought it because she just couldn't pass up such an extraordinary dress.

After many applications of make up and plenty of eye-shadow, Ruth is finally ready to present herself for her parents' approval. In the meantime her date, Bernard Crumbley, sits uncomfortably in his rented tuxedo wondering what kind of mess Ruth is making of herself.

But, when Ruth comes out of her room completely dressed, her parents and Bernard are pleased because they see in this one girl something unusual. They can see the happiness and joy beam from her face that all other girls like her feel at this time. Maybe even half of them experience the same troubles Ruth has had. (But we hope not!)

MAKE A SPLASH AT THE PROM

The Prom is tomorrow night. And, not to be a party-pooper, there are a few common-sense rules all who attend will be expected to observe.

First and foremost, there is the problem of safety. In case we strike a sandbar, it's SENIORS FIRST in loading the life-boats—all three of them. It's rather impolite to drown your guests. Furthermore, the owners of the Belle of Louisville will not permit congregating at either end of the boat as such a mass of dead weight would certainly capsize the vessel. Now, this brings us to life preservers. You will find that all 15 flavors (including the newest flavor — Bubonic Banana) are sold at the Snack Bar.

Absolutely no mouth-to-mouth artificial respiration will be allowed unless the boat is actually sinking. Class sponsors are not to be tossed overboard again this year. They never dry out in time for the Senior Picnic. Besides they're all wet anyway. (Just kidding, just kidding!)

No fishing over the side of the boat — even if you are hungry. You will find that the refreshment committee has thoughtfully purchased two gross of jelly beans for us to munch on... and munch on... and munch on...

Last Words Of Advice From A 1967 Senior

As a matter of course, seniors are not always as kind as they might be to underclassmen. However, as the end of school approaches a strange desire to give the freshmen and sophs some advice on what to do with their remaining high school years emerges in the minds of some seniors. This phenomenon could be one last outburst of all ready overgrown egos or it could be something nobler — like a sincere desire to help. In the hopes that this shocking admission of considerateness will prove the writer's good intentions, here is, without further adieu, Advice On How To Not Make A Flop Out Of High School.

RULE 1. Study. This cannot be stressed too strongly. To repeat that worn out phrase once more, "you aren't going to get anywhere in this world without an education." How true. And, the point is, you cannot get a real, valuable education unless you study. Now, you may not want to sacrifice a trip somewhere in order to study for an hour, but twenty years from now (and believe it or not, time will pass) how important will that trip be compared to the study? Everything just said sounds pretty boring, but this isn't to say that there's something wrong with going places. It's just to point out that some things are more important than others.

RULE 2. Listen to what grown-ups tell you. This doesn't mean you have to wear the clothes they like or dance the waltz or anything like that. Listen to what they tell you about working and living in general. Remember when you were in the grades and you thought you knew it all. Now, when you think back, you see how dumb you were not to have taken some of the advice that was offered to you. How do you think seniors feel when they look back on their early high school years. If you'll pay attention to what you're told, you'll save yourself a lot of sweat.

RULE 3. Have a good time. We learn most of all from those around us. Avoid cliques — they become boring very, very quickly.

OPINIONS

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

What do you think you prove? This is the question I ask all people who find pleasure in tormenting or making fun of people who are weaker than they physically or mentally.

Your answer to the question may be: "I gotta prove I'm tough!" To whom do you think you are proving this? Not me, I assure you. I've been a victim of many people who enjoy tormenting and ridiculing people. The tormentor and ridiculer does not prove he's tough. He merely proves he can do something anyone else can do. What is so "tough" about hitting a person in the back while he's walking down the hall? I compare that to someone shooting someone else in the back, and that, of course, is thought to be cowardly to everyone.

So what is it you gain? Friends? Not many. Happiness? You may try to fool yourself, but you gain no happiness. You see, when you pick on someone smaller than you, that shows no courage or toughness. I define a bully - (or tormentor or ridiculer) - this way: A bully is a person who is not scared to step on an anthill, but does not have the courage to climb a mountain. In order to climb a mountain, you need determination, intelligence, perseverance, and a many other admirable qualities. The only thing you need to have to step on an anthill is a foot. Everyone steps on anthills sometimes. Accidentally, this happens every day. When we hurt other people's feelings without intending to, we are, in a way, stepping on an anthill. So, everyone has done that. However, few climb mountains. Quite a few may try, but many don't make it to the top.

All of this, of course, is symbolic: The mountain symbolizes goals that we must have in order to have a good life. So, by picking on people smaller and weaker than you, you are proving nothing to anyone except that you haven't grown up.

The time will come when the fun will be over for good: You'll pick on the wrong person and get a taste of your own medicine. So, before it's too late, ask yourself: "What am I proving by being a bully?"

If you are honest with yourself, you'll find out that things will be better if you change.

It's not too late to change now, but one of these days, it will be. So, before that time comes, grow up and act mature. Think about someone other than yourself.

Then you'll really be proving something!

Dear Editor,

I have often heard the remark "Why go to plays, athletic events, or other programs put on by the students, because always the same people are in everything." This may be true, but why?

The local radio station WPDF is allowing the senior class to take over for one day. After the announcement came over the intercom, for all seniors interested in participating in this to report to the gym, out of 114 members in the senior class, only about 45 attended the meeting.

A musical comedy is being planned to be presented in May. Unlike most plays, which are open only to dramatics club members, this one is open to everyone in the school to try out. This play needs a cast of at least 35. And out of almost 600 in the student body, there are not nearly enough trying.

All sports are open to everyone, so is band and all clubs.

Yet people still gripe because the same people are in everything, when the reason is because these are the only people who put out any effort or try to get things done. So my advice is to quit griping and get into things.

Larry Gleitz 2nd In Speech Contest

Larry Gleitz, a sophomore, won second place in the County Soil and Water Conservation speaking contest. The event was held on Wednesday, March 29, in the Eureka Telephone Company building. He was chosen to represent our school by winning a speech contest among other students at Corydon. The subject of the contest was "What Soil and Water Conservation Means to Me, My Country, and My Nation." Steve Haggard, who was runner-up in the contest held at Corydon, also spoke but was not eligible for an award.

Sylvia Lopp, a Lanesville senior was the winner of the contest and Jane Russell of South Central was third.

The contest judges were Mrs. Lenore LaHue, Herb Arms, Frank O'Bannon, Jack Washburn, and Judge C. Bliss Eskew.

The contest was arranged by Lou F. Flora, James Leffler, James Gleitz and Lee Harmon.

A Mere Case Of "Supply And Demand"

Those sitting in the cafeteria saw their Jello begin to wiggle all by itself. Trays vibrated off the tables and crashed to the floor. Several new cracks in the brick walls appeared and numerous pieces of paint were shaken loose from the ceiling. A visitor in the lunchroom hysterically remarked, "I didn't know you had earthquakes in Harrison County!" "We don't," replied one of the C.C.H.S. student, who was apparently calm and unconcerned about the fact that his oscillating lunch table had just flung his carrots and raisins into his neighbor's ear. "That's just the 4th period economics class coming down the hall to lunch."

Yes, trampling all who strayed in their path, the group of prospective voters and future Good Citizens, burst through the cafeteria doors (literally) and deposited their books with speed and accuracy (mostly speed, however) on the remnants of the wooden shelf put there for that purpose.

But, wait! Why are they stopping at the milk cooler? A shocking discovery spreads through the ranks like wildfire — there is no more milk. Has the NFO struck again ??? Cries of, "I want my money (2 cents) back!" and "Anybody seen a cow around?" are heard. The group of normally well-behaved students turn into an angry mob. Where is Mrs. Windell? Has she taken refuge in the biscuit warming cabinet? No, she now knows (thanks to a hasty message delivered by Mr. Norman) of the worsening situation. Vainly, she pleads with the unruly bunch and tries to explain that because of the visiting band members and a late delivery of milk the supply has been exhausted. Do these wild, uncontrollable animals with their seething anger mounting every second listen to the poor cafeteria manager as she pleads her case. Yeh — who likes milk anyway.

Bryan Moss, C.C.H.S. graduate, brother of Jill, and former Pantherette photographer, has a picture in last week's "Miscellany" section of Life Magazine.

The "Miscellany" section contains a full-page picture appearing at the end of each issue. The pictures are usually humorous or satirical in nature. Mr. Moss' picture was of two pairs of legs running in the Big Ten Track Meet at I.U. last summer. The two pairs of legs are almost identical except that one of the runners has somehow lost a shoe.

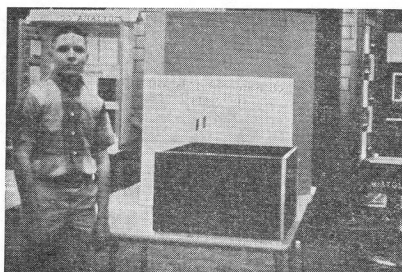

Mr. Moss was graduated from I.U. last June, and is currently working for The Bloomington Herald-Telephone as a photographer. He and his wife, the former Mary Jo Davis, have one child, Darcey.

FBLA Attends State Convention

Anita Fisher, second vice-president of the Indiana Future Business Leaders of America, was in charge of organizing discussion groups at the state convention held at Ball State last week end.

Mrs. Peggy Fluhr and Miss Lois Rothrock accompanied eighteen girls from the Corydon Central High School club to the state meeting. The club left by chartered Greyhound Bus for Muncie at 12 noon on Friday and returned Saturday evening.

The discussion group consisted of the following topics and each delegate was required to participate in one discussion. The topics were as follows: "What it Means to be a State FBLA Officer," "Money Making Projects," "Way for Recruiting Members," "Chapter Programs," "How to Publicize and Promote FBLA in Your Community," "The Future of Business Leaders," "What Goes on at National Convention," and "What it Means to be a FBLA Chapter Officer." Campaign speeches of members running for state offices followed the discussions.

Two local chapter members ran for state offices, Barbara Lang, treasurer, and Pam Fisher, second vice-president.

The local club won first place in the original project contest. In this each of the eighteen girls chose a job and studied the requirements and demands for it in this locality. They also interviewed a person who holds such a job. Then a 1000 word report on the project was prepared and sent in for judging.

Diane Emily and Barbara Overton, also of this chapter, entered state contests. Barbara won a third place rating in the Miss FBLA contest and Diane was entered in the Spelling contest. The club entered an exhibit, "Business Leaders In A World Wide Demand," which consisted of a large globe surrounded by dolls from all lands and items depicting the different jobs available in business.

Panthers Drop First Track Meet

The Corydon Panthers lost their first track meet of the season as Salem out-scored them by two points 60-58.

Salem, which is considered one of the top teams in the conference, led by twelve points with only the relays left to be run. Both of Corydon's relay teams ran impressive races and won both events.

Mike Miles cut two tenths of a second off his 100 yd. dash time, but was nipped at the finish by a hair by Mike Cook of Salem.

The mile relay team, composed of Allan Hoskins, Bill Powell, Fred Harper, and Monty Schneider, turned in a very good time of 3:47, shaving a full second from their previous time. The 380 relay team, composed of Jim McIntire, Bob Pate, Don Shewmaker, and Mike Miles, trimmed three seconds off their previous time. Their time of 1:41 was very respectable due to the fact that the Corydon track is considered slow. Both relay teams should be in good shape when the Brownstown Relays come up.

Corydon Routs County Rival

Corydon won its first track meet of the season against Morgan Township on the Corydon track.

Monty Schneider, Mike Miles, Pete Akers, and Jim McIntire were standouts for Corydon.

Corydon Harriers Down Austin 86-32

Corydon won its second dual meet of the week 86-32 with Austin furnishing the competition at the Corydon track.

Monty Schneider, Mike Miles, Pete Akers, Allen Hoskins, Jim McIntire, were impressive, but no one individual should be singled out, for it was an all around team effort.

Monty again lowered his mile time to 4:40. Hampered by a cold, Monty still cut one second off his time of two days earlier. He switched relays today and came from behind to anchor the mile relay team to its second victory this season.

Mike Miles again piled up points for Corydon. He won the 100 yd. dash, tied for first in the pole vault, and anchored the winning 880 relay. He took second in the shot put and tied for second in the high jump. In the coming meets he will specialize in the pole vault, 100 yd. dash, and 880 relay.

Pete Akers again won the high jump with a leap of 5'6" to improve his mark there. Pete is trying the high hurdles for the first time this year and came through with a first in that event. He also took a second in the low hurdles.

Allen Hoskins lowered his time in the 440 yd. run and did a good job since he is normally a sprinter.

Jim McIntire ran very well in the sprints. He along with Don Shewmaker, Bob Pate, and Miles could put another record on the track board this season in the 880 relay. Jim and Don are only sophomores and the outlook is very bright.

Other sophomores showed well in this meet. Doug Bates, running the low hurdles for the first time this year, won that event. Bill Powell looked good in the pole vault and 440 yd. run. Fred Harper won the 880 yd. run. Mike McGraw is showing rapid improvement in the hurdles.

The freshmen are giving real good support in the varsity meets again this year. Steve Schneider won the two mile run, took a second in the mile behind brother Monty, and ran a very good third leg on the winning mile relay. He is just now realizing his potential, and Coach Phillips is very high on this boy. Bill Hamilton and Pete Wolfe took second and third places in the two mile run and did looked good. David Olson took a second in the 880 yd. run. Roger Hoskins took a third in the low hurdles and is showing promise here. He broke the Jr. High record in the low hurdles last year.

Wood's Golfers Whip Generals 149 - 181

The Corydon Golf team routed the Clarksville Generals 149 to 181 as they won their first meet of the season.

The medalist was Jack Miles who shot a 35, followed by Bill Kirkham and Alan Hess with 37's. Larry Harmon rounded out the Corydon scoring with a 40.

Clarksville scores were Herman 39, Sicklesmith 46, Carter 47, and Schlageter 49.

Coach Wood Named Coach Of The Year

Panthers Coach John Wood has been named "Coach of the Year" by the South Central Coaches, Officials and Principals Association on Monday, April 10, at Salem.

Coach Wood led the Panthers to a 16-9 season mark including the championship of the IHSAA Salem Sectional.

TRACK TEAM GAINS FOURTH WIN

The Corydon Central High School track team ran its record to four wins and one loss Friday against Perry Central. The score of 84-34 was impressive due to the fact that many of the boys tried different events than they usually run.

Freshman Steve Schneider turned in a very good time of 5:05.8 in the mile run and freshman Pete Wolfe came in third.

Jim McIntire, running the 440 yard run for the first time this year, had a good time of 56.3. He is usually a dash specialist, but he and Allan Hoskins switched events and both won. Hoskins won the 220 yard dash in a time of 24.4.

Sophomore Bill Powell and freshman Bill Hamilton both cleared 10'6" in the pole vault, but Powell won on fewer misses.

Co-Captain Monty Schneider did a little switching himself. He by-passed his speciality, which is the mile run, in order to run the 880 yard run. In so doing, he erased another school record that has stood since 1936. The old record of 2:03 was held by Orlin Didelot, which he set in 1936. Monty shaved a full second and a tenth off Didelot's record, running it in the fine time of 2:01.9. This is the third record that Monty has been associated with in his three years of varsity competition. He was on the mile relay team that set a new school record in that event two years ago; he set the school mile run record last year; then his half mile performance Friday.

Lynn Anderson, sophomore, was also presented the Eagle Scout badge at the Court of Honor. Lynn has been in the Scouts four years. The Court of Honor was held at the Corydon Central High School.

Monty Schneider set the new school record in the 880 of 2:01.9. The old record of 2:03 was set by Orlin Didelot in 1936.
